1. Overview of Exemptions and Professional Bodies

1.1. What is an exemption?

If you already have some qualifications, you may not have to take all of the exams required by the professional accounting bodies. These are called exemptions and mean that you will start your professional studies at the right level for your knowledge and skill.

The University of Worcester has a close working relationship with all the professional accounting bodies and the BA (Hons) Accounting and Finance degree has been awarded the maximum number of exemptions available from the professional accounting bodies.

1.2. Association of Chartered Certified Accountants 'ACCA'

ACCA is the global body for professional accountants. They aim to offer business-relevant, first-choice qualifications to people of application, ability and ambition around the world who seek a rewarding career in accountancy, finance and management.

They support over 240,000 fully qualified members and 500,000 students in 179 countries, helping them to develop successful careers in accounting and business, with the skills needed by employers. They work through a network of over 100 offices and centres and more than 8,500 Approved Employers worldwide, who provide high standards of employee learning and development.

ACCA offers exemptions from the ACCA Qualification and Foundation in Accountancy qualifications to students who have studied other relevant qualifications. This means you can start your studies at a level that is consistent with the knowledge and skills gained from prior learning and provides you with the quickest route to ACCA membership.

What level of exemption can ACCA award?

The following table shows the entire suite of ACCA exam papers, together with the expected exemptions available to University of Worcester BA (Hons) Accounting and Finance degree students. For further details on exemptions from ACCA refer to section 2.

1.3.The Institute of Chartered Accountants in England & Wales 'ICAEW'

ICAEW is a world leading professional membership organisation that promotes, develops and supports roughly 190,000 chartered accountants worldwide. They provide qualifications and professional development, share their knowledge, insight and technical expertise, and protect the quality and integrity of the accountancy and finance profession.

As leaders in accountancy, finance and business their members have the knowledge, skills and commitment to maintain the highest professional standards and integrity. Together they contribute to the success of individuals, organisations, communities and economies around the world.

Credit for prior learning ('CPL') is the ICAEW's term for exemptions. High quality learning and assessment in other relevant qualifications is appropriately recognised by the award of CPL.

What level of exemption can ICAEW award?

1.5. Chartered Institute of Public Finance and Accountancy 'CIPFA'

CIPFA is the only professional accountancy body exclusively dedicated to public finance in the world.

CIPFA, the Chartered Institute of Public Finance and Accountancy, is the professional body for people in public finance. Their 14,000 members work throughout public services, in national audit agencies, in major accountancy firms, and in other bodies where public money needs to be effectively and efficiently managed.

As the world's only professional accountancy body to specialise in public services, CIPFA's portfolio of qualifications are the foundation for a career in public finance. They include the benchmark professional qualification for public sector accountants.

They also champion high performance in public services, translating their experience and insight into clear advice and practical services. They include information and guidance, courses and conferences, property and asset management solutions, consultancy and interim people for a range of public sector clients.

Globally, CIPFA shows the way in public finance by standing up for sound public financial management and good governance. They work with donors, partner governments, accountancy bodies and the public sector around the world to advance public finance and support better public services.

What level of exemption can CIPFA award?

CIPFA introduced a new qualification structure and syllabus in 2022, named CIPFA Futures, and the following table shows the suite of CIPFA Futures exam papers, together with the exemptions available to University of Worcester BA (Hons) Accounting and Finance degree students.
